Fort St. George, May 31, 1927.

No. 71.—The following notifications of the Government of India are republished:—

FINANCE DEPARTMENT.

LEAVE AND APPOINTMENTS.

Simla, the 5th May 1927.

No. D./1927 F.E.—Mr. P. E. Kirkpatrick, a temporary Assistant Accounts Officer now in charge of the combined Audit and Accounts Office, Palamcottah, has been confirmed as an Assistant Accounts Officer in the office of the Accountant-General, Madras, with effect from the 1st April 1929.

He will continue to hold the temporary post of Assistant Accounts Officer in charge of the Audit and Accounts Office, Palamcottah.

No. D./1927-F.E.—Mr. C. Ramachandra Ayyar, a senior Accountant in the office of the Accountant-General, Madras, has been appointed to officiate as an Assistant Accounts Officer in that office, with effect from the 25th April 1927.

No. 72.—The following resolution of the Government of India is republished:—

Simla, the 5th May 1927.

No. D-2163-A.—The Governor-General in Council has had under consideration the fourth Report presented by the Committee on Public Accounts, a Report which throughout affords evidence of exhaustive and careful examination of many difficulties, constitutional and financial, and of numerous detailed questions which have come to the notice of the Committee in the course of their examination of the accounts. On many of the problems investigated it has not yet been possible to arrive at a final decision, but the Governor General in Council desires to record his appreciation of the assistance rendered by the Committee in clarifying the issues on several important questions.

2. Since the issue of the Report, the Governor-General in Council has devoted careful consideration to the recommendations made and the opinions expressed by the Committee in the Report and in the minutes of their meetings. Most of the major questions are dealt with in the ensuing paragraphs. As regards the remaining recommendations, which deal mainly with matters of detail, a statement of the action taken or proposed will be furnished to the Committee at its next meeting.

3. The Governor-General in Council observes that once again a wide divergence is found between the estimates of the year and the actual expenditure. Against grants aggregating 2,67,18 lakhs, the saving in actual expenditure amounted to 24,93 lakhs or about 10·8 per cent. Of this, 4,27 lakhs or 3·6 per cent occurred under non-voted expenditure and 24,66 lakhs or 16·5 per cent of the aggregate grants, under voted expenditure. The Committee have carefully analysed the main reasons for this divergence. In several cases it is due to causes which could not have been foreseen; in others laudable efforts to secure greater economy and control of expenditure have had their reward in considerable savings, but, in many cases, the conclusion cannot be avoided that due care was not exercised in the preparation of the departmental estimates. The Governor-General in Council recognises that much greater attention is now devoted to this important question and trusts that the special measures to which the Committee refer, i.e., the steps taken to reduce the capital grant for Railways, the supply by Provincial Governments of more reliable estimates of the advances which they require, a more vigorous application of the system of lump cuts for probable savings particularly in the case of establishment and works expenditure, and the adoption of a simpler and more intelligible system of estimating in the case of the military grant, will ensure in future a greater measure of conformity with the actual requirements of the year.

4. The Governor-General in Council observes with regret, that in respect of the year 1924–25 the number of cases in which expenditure exceeded the grants voted by the Legislature is greater than in the previous year though it is so far satisfactory that the gross amount of the total excess has been reduced. The Committee have analysed the circumstances in which these irregularities have occurred and have traced them to the following dominant causes:—

(1) Introduction of new accounting arrangements for the first time in 1924–25;

(2) the view held that allocation from the Finance Department reserve avoided the necessity for supplementary grants;

(3) the difficulties of watching the progress of expenditure under a system which permits of large amounts being brought to account after the close of the year;

(4) failure to observe the rule that belated adjustments should be brought to account in the year in which they were discovered and not antedated; and

(5) failure to act up to the capital programme on the part of certain spending authorities.

Measures for the avoidance of such excesses have been engaging the close attention of the Governor-General in Council since the Committee drew his attention to the situation in their Report on the accounts of 1923–24 and further steps are being taken to deal with the specific factors to which the Committee have now adverted. He counts on the close co-operation of all authorities concerned to ensure that the Committee will have less cause to comment upon such irregularities in future reports.

5. The Committee next discuss the form of Demands for Grants and in particular the intricate accounting problem involved in the question of treatment of gross and net grants. The whole subject had been discussed exhaustively by the authorities concerned both from the accounting and the constitutional point of view and their final conclusions were placed before the Public Accounts Committee. The Governor General in Council is gratified to note that the Committee have accorded their general approval to these conclusions which were subjected to further examination in discussions with the Financial Representatives of the Provinces at the annual conference held in November last. General agreement was then reached that rules embodying these conclusions should be tentatively adopted in all the provinces. Considerable difficulty and confusion would have followed an attempt to impose the revised system on the Demands for Grants for 1927-28 which had already been framed under the old system, but necessary steps are being taken to secure the introduction of the changes in the Demands for the ensuing year. In the meantime the opinions of local Governments are being invited on the detailed rules.

6 On the question of the form of the Finance and Revenue accounts and of the form in which the budget of the Government of India should be presented to the Assembly the Committee offer valuable comment. As regards the former, they endorse the view of the Auditor General that the aim should be clarity of presentation and the production of a correct picture of all the activities of the spending departments and that the accounts of expenditure should, therefore, be worked up to a gross figure of outgoings and that working expenses, charges for interest, etc., should not simply be shown as deductions from receipts. On the other hand, in the case of the budget, the form of presentation should be the one best calculated to give the public a clear and intelligent account of the financial position of the Government of India. They recognise the undesirability, on the one hand, of inflating the accounts and, on the other hand, of obscuring the real importance of the activities of Government and they come to a tentative opinion that in the figures in the Budget Speech itself and in the statements issued at the time of the budget, both the gross and the net expenditure should be shown in appropriate forms. The Governor-General in Council fully recognises the importance of securing a settlement which will present the facts in the clearest light. The various complicated issues have been under his consideration and definite conclusions will, it is hoped, be reached at no distant date.

7. The Committee refer again to the possibility of constituting a Civil Contingencies Fund, a subject which was discussed by their predecessors in the Report on the accounts of 1923-24. They refer to the legal problems which have been advanced and suggest that, if these are found to be insuperable, steps should be taken to alter the law. Under the present system the reserve at the disposal of the Finance Department in the 'Miscellaneous' grant is utilised to supplement deficiencies under other votes and the approval of the Assembly was not hitherto obtained to supplementary grants. This procedure is irregular, in that it involves a transfer of funds from one grant to another, and further contravenes the important constitutional principle that excess expenditure under any head requires a supplementary grant from the legislature under that head. The legal and constitutional aspects of the question have been considered at length by the Governor General in Council with special reference to the proposal for the creation of a Civil Contingencies Fund on English lines, under which money will be voted once for all to the fund and sums advanced from time to time to departments will be recouped from sums voted by the Assembly under the appropriate head of account. This system, however, will still involve the voting of the same sum twice, once to the fund and then to the particular head, a procedure which has been held to be irregular. A further complication is introduced by the fact that section 67 A of the Government of India Act forbids by implication the incurring of expenditure unless and until a demand has been granted by the Legislature, except in the special circumstances provided for in that section. It will be recognised that, as the estimates are framed well in advance of the year to which they relate, it is not possible to provide for all contingencies and occasions must arise on which it is essential in the interests of the public administration to incur expenditure, for which no provision has been voted, in anticipation of the approval of the Legislature. Such considerations, in fact, underlie the present expedient by which a lump grant is placed at the disposal of the Finance Department to meet unforeseen expenditure. The problem is one which requires further consideration involving amendment of the Act and the rules thereunder and the Governor-General in Council is not yet in a position to announce any final decision on the subject. In the meantime the Governor-General in Council considers that the system of voting a reserve to meet unforeseen expenditure should be continued but he agrees with the Committee that allocation from the reserve to meet expenditure under another voted head should not be allowed to infringe the doctrine that expenditure in excess of a voted grant can be regularised only by a vote of the Assembly. For this reason supplementary demands were presented to the Assembly at their last session to regularise such allocations from the reserve during the year 1926-27. This procedure involves double voting but this is less objectionable than failure to obtain supplementary grants.

8. The Committee draw attention to a general tendency on the part of spending departments to over-estimate expenditure, more especially in the provision made for establishments and under heads relating to expenditure on works. As they rightly observe, such margins facilitate re-appropriation for purposes not contemplated at the time when the budget was framed and not authorised by the Assembly, and they recommend that steps should be taken to ensure that the provisions for establishments should be based not only on the existing cadres but also on the figures of actual expenditure of previous years. The Finance Department has already introduced the system of lump sum deductions in order to counteract a natural tendency on the part of estimating officers to err on the safe side. In the budget estimates for 1926-27, 16 lump cuts distributed over nine heads of accounts and aggregating over Rs. 20 lakhs were made. Except in two cases, where special reasons existed for the excess, the revised estimate under the major head as a whole was less than the budget estimate thus justifying the expedient. The Governor General in Council accepts the recommendation of the Committee that this system should be applied more boldly and has already acted upon it in framing the estimates of 1927-28. He further agrees that careful statistics should be kept of the proportions between actual expenditure and estimates based on the existing cadres under establishment heads.

9. The Committee refer to the satisfactory results achieved by the introduction of commercialised accounts in the Posts and Telegraphs Department after an elaborate expert enquiry extending over several years and also raise the questions of the cost of the services rendered by that department to other Government departments. They are of opinion that sufficient credit has not been given in the accounts for the work done by this department on behalf of the Government and the public by the ratio system which operates at a considerable annual loss. They suggest that a separate profit and loss account should be worked out for this part of the department's activities. Definite proposals have been formulated for this purpose which are now under the consideration of Government. In the same connexion the Committee have referred to the credit due to the department for railway telegraphs and the credit due to the telegraph and telephone portions of the account for services rendered to the Postal Department. The former question, which is one of considerable complexity is still under consideration In the latter case the principle has been accepted and a provisional statement of the necessary adjustments was laid before the Legislature in the course of the debates on the Budget in March last.

10. In paragraph 18 of their Report the Committee comment on the number of cases in which loss to the tax-payer has resulted from defective drafting of contracts entered into on behalf of the Government. They recommend that adequate arrangements should be made for securing that legal and financial advice is available to and obtained by officers responsible before contracts are finally concluded. Standard forms of contracts are suggested for adoption wherever possible, the rates to be subject to adequate prior scrutiny. They reaffirm the view expressed by their predecessors in paragraph 49 of their Report in 1925 that rules should be made to provide that contracts containing any unusual conditions should not be entered into without previous consultation with the Finance Department and that material variations in contracts once entered into should not be made without its sanction. They also emphasise the importance of the principle that whenever practicable, contracts should be placed only after tenders have been openly invited and that in cases where the contract, which is prima facie in the tax-payers' interest, is not accepted, the reason should be recorded and should be subjected to close scrutiny both by the Executive and by the Audit Department. The Governor-General in Council regards this question as one of the greatest importance and he records his general approval of the salutary principles to which the Committee have given expression.

It is observed that the rules and procedure as regards contracts which have been prescribed for the Railway and Army Departments in their respective departmental codes and regulations are generally adequate to their purpose and in accordance with the principles adopted by the Public Accounts Committee. No manual or set of rules, however, exists for the guidance of other departments except the Public Works Department. The Governor-General in Council accepts the recommendation of the Committee on the question and is now considering the formulation of comprehensive instructions on the lines recommended by the Committee for the guidance of all departments.

11. The Committee draw attention once again to the rule that expenditure of a kind which is technically of the nature of a "new service" ought always to be brought to the notice of the Assembly and subjected to its vote even though it may be possible to meet the charge by reappropriation from savings under other sub heads of the grant affected. The adoption of the device of a token vote for this purpose was considered by the Governor-General in Council in connection with a similar question raised by the Government of the Punjab and he came to the conclusion that a supplementary demand must be presented for the whole amount involved and not solely for a token amount if the service is a new service, inasmuch as the presentation of a specific demand for expenditure on a new service is a statutory obligation which cannot be avoided by the expedient of a token grant. A practical difficulty lies in devising a precise definition of the term "new service" and this question is under further examination. It will be necessary to find an interpretation of the present wording of the statute which will be workable and to determine what classes of expenditure require a special vote. Eventually it may be necessary to amend the existing law to meet practical difficulties.

12. On the cognate question of the use of savings under non-voted heads for new expenditure not provided for in the original estimate, the Governor General in Council endorses the view of the Committee that it is desirable to frame rules in regard to such reappropriations for services other than the Army (where rules laid down by the Secretary of State are already in force), distinction being made between reappropriations required to cover excesses in normal expenditure and those required to meet the cost of entirely new services. He has also accepted the recommendation of the Committee that a statement should be laid on the table of the Assembly at the time of the presentation of the annual budget which should show in detail the cases in which the sanction of the Finance Department has been given to additional appropriations for non-voted expenditure. Such a statement relating to non-voted grants for the year ending 31st March 1927 was circulated to members of the Legislature with the last budget statement.

13. The Committee describe at some length the important results that have been achieved by the experimental institution of a system of Pay and Accounts Offices which is one of the main features in the separation of accounts and audit. They refer in particular to the improved control over expenditure and the facilities for watching the progress of expenditure which the system affords. The Governor-General in Council observes with gratification that the Committee conclude with an expression of opinion that, though it is too early to pronounce judgment on the general experiment of separation of audit and accounts, the new system of Pay and Accounts Offices has created a very favourable impression on their minds and has resulted in considerable savings particularly in the case of New Delhi. The scheme for the separation of accounts and audit has already been introduced as an experimental measure in the United Provinces and the possibility of extending it to other provinces was discussed at length at the Simla conference of Financial Representatives held in November 1926. The general opinion, however, was that it would be preferable to postpone the further extension of the scheme until the success of the experiment in the United Provinces had been fully established. The Governor-General in Council accepts this view and awaits the report of the Auditor General on the experiment which will be prepared when the accounts for 1926-27 have been closed.

14. The Committee refer at some length to certain irregularities connected with the Sambhar Improvement Scheme disclosed in the Audit and Appropriation Accounts of the Central Government. They do not, however, give a definite decision on the matter, but have left the question for further investigation by the Public Accounts Committee of 1927. The outstanding points are now under examination and the views of the Government of India will be placed before the Committee. In regard to certain irregularities brought to light by the local audit and inspection of the accounts of the Northern India Salt Department, the Governor-General in Council agrees that these were due, to some extent, to the fact that works were executed in a remote locality where only rudimentary arrangements existed for scrutinising the accounts. The Governor-General in Council is considering the recommendation of the Committee that a set of rules should be framed giving adequate but carefully defined powers to the officer who is in charge of a major work in a remote part where conditions of labour and transport are totally different from those in more easily accessible localities to which the ordinary rules apply.

13. In commenting on the series of frauds that were discovered in the Appraising Department of the Calcutta Custom House in 1923, the Committee raise the question whether the present arrangements for supervising the work of the Appraising staff at the principal ports are adequate. They rightly observe that the responsibilities of these officers are very considerable, since the customs revenue at stake is by far the most important source of the revenue of the Government of India. They also emphasise the importance of improving the system of internal check in Custom Houses. Both these subjects have received the anxious consideration of the Central Board of Revenue and certain proposals for rectifying the defects in the general system are under discussion. Proposals for revision of the Sea Customs Act, on which the Committee lay stress, have now been formulated and are under consideration.

14. The system of priced store and cost accounts which was in force for some years in the Army has now been radically modified in accordance with the recommendations of the special committee which was appointed to enquire into the efficacy of the system. The estimates of the military services for the year 1927-28 have been greatly simplified and improved by the grouping of expenditure by heads under the authorities finally responsible for its control and all cost accounting items have been excluded. Priced store accounting has been abolished in all consuming units and will in future be confined to supply and store depots and manufacturing establishments but subsidiary accounts will be maintained to show the cost of maintenance of various arms of the service. The Governor-General in Council trusts that the simplification of the accounts will greatly strengthen financial control and facilitate the prompter preparation of the records of progress of expenditure. The Committee have emphasised the necessity for improvement of local audit. The Governor-General in Council fully recognises the importance of this question and has taken steps to secure the reform which the Committee desire. The abolition of priced store accounting in consuming units and the amalgamation of certain District account offices with Command offices has made it possible to find the establishment necessary to strengthen local audit without extra expense.

17. The Committee draw the attention of Government to the fact that expenditure has been recorded in a number of cases under a head different from that under which budget provision was made for it. They ascribe this defect in part to lack of full co-operation between the officers responsible for the preparation of budget estimates and those responsible for preparing the accounts. The position is that the Auditor-General is the statutory authority for the decision of questions of classification. Therefore if at the time of preparation of the budget, any doubt arises on a point of classification, the budget authorities must refer the relevant facts to the classification authority for decision. The preparation of the budget is, however, frequently conducted under very high pressure and it must occasionally happen that time does not permit of consultation of the accounting authorities. Certain items may thus be classed in the demands under heads different from those under which they eventually appear in the accounts after it has been possible to resolve the doubt. The Governor-General in Council would impress upon those responsible for the preparation of the budget the desirability of conformity between the demands for grants and the accounts and he trusts that whenever doubt arises, the decision of the proper authority will invariably be obtained whenever it is possible to do so without serious risk of delay.

18. The Committee refer to an allegation that travelling allowances in the Posts and Telegraphs Department are inadequate and, while reaffirming the principle that travelling allowance should not be a source of profit, they suggest that the contention should be carefully investigated. This question has already been considered by the Posts and Telegraphs Department and draft rules have been framed to obviate certain difficulties which arise under the present system. Experience has shown that this system is in many respects defective and that the general effect of certain rules is in the interest neither of the Government servant nor of the taxpayer. The Finance Department therefore proposes to formulate revised regulations of general application.

19. The desirability of redrafting Fundamental Rule 45, which has been urged by the Committee in paragraph 37 of their Report, has already been recognised by the Governor-General in Council and revised rules have been prepared for the approval of the Secretary of State in Council. In the same paragraph the Committee recommend that "houses designed and built for officers of a higher status should not be let to officers of a lower status in view of the loss of rent involved". The Governor-General in Council presumes that it is not the intention of the Committee that houses should not be allotted to officers of lower status if officers of the class for which they are intended are not available. On this presumption, he accepts the recommendation.

20. The Committee conclude their general comments with an expression of their appreciation of the value of the report on the Audit and Appropriation Accounts of the Central Government and their recognition of the great pains devoted by the Accountant-General to its preparation in an improved form. The Governor-General in Council desires to endorse this tribute and trusts that the suggestions made by the Committee for the further improvement of the form of the report will be borne in mind by the officers concerned in the preparation of future reports. The Governor-General in Council is much gratified to note the Committee's approbation of the ready assistance rendered by witnesses in explaining and elucidating points which arose in the course of examination and of the trouble taken by witnesses to acquaint themselves with details of their cases. The enquiries of the Public Accounts Committee add to the labours of the officers referred to and he greatly appreciates the spirit in which this additional duty has been accepted in the interests of the efficiency and integrity of the public service.

21. The action taken by the Governor-General in Council on the detailed recommendations on specific points, which have not been dealt with in this resolution and particularly those raised in section III of the Report, will, as in previous years, be communicated to the Public Accounts Committee at their next meeting.
